Always remember how sick Charles got a year and a half ago, his stint in rehab and his sense of urgency to get home. He loved to speak of the ranch at Sterling Colorado, his and Betty's flying their planes and his military duty. As he got healthier one could observe him faithfully walking with his 4 wheeler around the park every day until we left for Iowa this spring. He was an inspiration for all of us to push to live. We wish you well, Betty, as you grieve his death.

We so very much enjoyed our many visits w/ Charles (and Betty), so welcoming in life in general. Flying airplanes, fixing something, or discussing hummingbird species, life on the Colorado ranch, and soldering in the Pacific. Charles was a true patriot, he loved God, loved his family, and loved his country USA.
